

Order under Section 69 Residential Tenancies Act, 2006

Citation: Ajilian v Behrens, 2026 ONLTB 2196

Date: 2026-01-05

File Number: LTB-L-068832-25

In the matter of: BASEMENT UNIT, 91 PATRICE CRES
THORNHILL ON L4J4Z2

Between: Farangis Ajilian

Landlord

And

Lawrence Behrens

Tenant

Farangis Ajilian (the 'Landlord') applied for an order to terminate the tenancy and evict Lawrence Behrens (the 'Tenant') because the Landlord in good faith requires possession of the rental unit for the purpose of residential occupation for at least one year.

The Landlord also claimed compensation for each day the Tenant remained in the unit after the termination date.

This application was heard by videoconference on December 4, 2025.

The Landlord, the Landlord's support person, Sam Khosravi, and the Landlord's Legal Representative, Anome Mehrabian, attended the hearing.

As of 9:30 a.m., the Tenant was not present or represented at the hearing although properly served with notice of this hearing by the LTB. There was no record of a request to adjourn the hearing. As a result, the hearing proceeded with only the Landlord's evidence.

Determinations:

1. As explained below, the Landlord has proven on a balance of probabilities the grounds for termination of the tenancy and the claim for compensation in the application. Therefore, the tenancy is terminated as of January 16, 2026.
2. The Tenant was in possession of the rental unit on the date the application was filed.
3. On August 12, 2025, the Landlord gave the Tenant an N12 notice of termination ("N12 Notice") with the termination date of October 31, 2025. The Landlord claims that they require vacant possession of the rental unit for the purpose of residential occupation by the Landlord.

4. Section 48.1 of the Residential Tenancies Act, 2006 (the 'Act'), requires the Landlord to provide compensation to the Tenant in amount equal to one month's rent where an N12 notice of termination is served. The Landlord's representative submitted the Tenant was provided with a cheque, dated August 13, 2025, in the amount equivalent to one month's rent. She submitted that although the Tenant received the cheque, it has not been deposited by the Tenant.
5. The Landlord provided a declaration stating he intends to reside in the rental unit for the purpose of residential occupation for a period of at least one year. The Landlord testified at the hearing and confirmed his intentions.
6. The Landlord testified he currently resides on the main floor of the house but intends to move to the basement unit so that his son and his family can occupy the main floor. He testified he has a good relationship with the Tenant however his son and family require long-term accommodation with more space. As he is single, the basement unit fits his needs, and he intends to remain there for the foreseeable future.
7. The issue to be determined by the Board is whether the Landlord has satisfied the "good faith" requirement set out in subsection 48(1) of the Act which provides: A landlord may, by notice, terminate a tenancy if the landlord in good faith requires possession of the rental unit for the purpose of residential occupation for a period of at least one year by the landlord.
8. The onus is on the Landlord to establish that the Landlord in good faith requires the rental unit for the purpose of her residential occupation.
9. In the leading case law involving a landlord's own use application, Salter v. Beljinac, 2001 CanLII 40231 (ON SCDC), [2001], O.J. No. 2792 (Div. Ct.), the Divisional Court held that:

the test of good faith is genuine intention to occupy the premises and not the reasonableness of the landlord's proposal...
10. Thus, the Landlord must establish that he genuinely intends to move into the unit. The Court also found in Salter that the Landlord's motives are "largely irrelevant".
11. The Landlord provided clear, consistent and uncontested evidence that he intends to provide a home for his son and family and will occupy the rental unit in the basement of the home.
12. On the basis of the uncontested evidence before the Board, I have no reason to doubt the truthfulness of the Landlord's testimony or his good faith intentions. I am therefore satisfied on the balance of probabilities, that the Landlord, in good faith requires possession of the rental unit for the purpose of his own residential occupation for a minimum of one year.

Daily compensation, rent deposit

13. The Tenant was required to pay the Landlord $894.20 in daily compensation for use and occupation of the rental unit for the period from November 1, 2025 to December 4, 2025.
14. Based on the monthly rent, the daily compensation is $26.30. This amount is calculated as follows: $800.00 x 12, divided by 365 days.

15. There is no last month's rent deposit.

Relief from eviction

16. I have considered all of the disclosed circumstances in accordance with subsection 83(2) of the Act and find that it would be unfair to grant relief from eviction pursuant to subsection 83(1) of the Act. The Tenant did not attend the hearing to provide evidence regarding their circumstances. The Landlord is unaware of any circumstances of the Tenant that would cause the Board to delay or deny eviction of the Tenant.

It is ordered that:

1. The tenancy between the Landlord and the Tenant is terminated. The Tenant must move out of the rental unit on or before January 16, 2026.
2. If the unit is not vacated on or before January 16, 2026, then starting January 17, 2026, the Landlord may file this order with the Court Enforcement Office (Sheriff) so that the eviction may be enforced.
3. Upon receipt of this order, the Court Enforcement Office (Sheriff) is directed to give vacant possession of the unit to the Landlord on or after January 17, 2026.
4. The Tenant shall pay to the Landlord $894.20, which represents compensation for the use of the unit from November 1, 2025 to December 4, 2025. The Landlord must deduct any monies received from the Tenant for rent from this amount.
5. The Tenant shall also pay the Landlord compensation of $26.30 per day for the use of the unit starting December 5, 2025 until the date the Tenant moves out of the unit.
6. If the Tenant does not pay the Landlord the full amount owing on or before January 16, 2026, the Tenant will start to owe interest. This will be simple interest calculated from January 17, 2026 at 4.00% annually on the balance outstanding.
